Brad likes to jog everywhere. Usually he is a timely man, but this morning he is running late.

Oh no! Not a train :/

Brad doesn't have time for this. He's late to work. How can he avoid this train? I wonder if there's an app!

Wow! Train tracker gives Brad an alternate route so he can keep jogging and get to work

Bye train!

Yay! Brad got to work on time 😊

 Evan works at a nuclear power plant and is a model employee	 Evan is trying to find an apartment closer to his job, but the real estate in his area is lacking. This causes him distress because there are many railroad crossings on his commute
 Evan's job is already stressful and high-risk enough, unexpected variables like trains really throw him off.	 Evan fears something terribly wrong will happen at work if he's not there, so he sacrifices sleep in order to get to work early to avoid any complications
 An app like a train tracker that keeps him updated on train activity and gives alternative routes would be highly beneficial, giving him peace of mind.	 Now Evan can sleep more and stress less. He's still looking for a new apartment though

Jacob need to drive to be able to get to his job. He has an obsession for being early and greeting those how come after him.

There is a train right next to the company he works at. He tries to beat the train by being earlier but its always there ahead of him. This has led him to stress and loss lots of sleep.

He tries to find alternate routes himself, but due to his lack of attention he always gets lost. He's heard of an app that will find alternate routes and the time of the train!

He uses the app and not only is he able to find the perfect time to get past the train but also an alternate route that has never seen before!

He shared about the app to his coworkers and now they all use it because everyone else was having the same problem. Due to the reward system he is able to customize his own train tracker app!

Jacob can finally go back to having a normal sleep schedule and greeting those who come after him at his work place!
